

The Pre-Salt carbonate reservoirs of the Santos Basin are composed of microbialites and coquinas. Faults and fractures generated by rifting control the porosity. Diagenesis plays a major role in reservoir quality.